The fine Georgian parish church of St John in Knutsford was built between 1741 and 1744. It was described by Lord Torrington in 1790 as "in the Venetian ballroom stile" and serves us splendidly in that capacity.

On the programme this year: a look back at Andrew's five published collections of dances (especially the unjustly neglected ones!), with a glimpse of what's to come.

Knutsford is 16 miles south of Manchester.

By road: M6(J19)/A556/A5033
or M56(J7)/new A556/A5034/A50

By train: from Manchester or Chester

St John's Church is in the centre of Knutsford on Church Hill, between the A50 (Toft Road) and the main street (King Street).
