Throughout its history the English Country Dance has relied for its vitality on the continual renewal of the repertoire - as seen in the hundreds of sets of 24 country dances for the year produced throughout the 18th century.

Nowadays, that renewal takes two forms: reconstruction of forgotten old dances and construction of new ones. Our programme will present new material from both streams, taught by its originators and played by two of the finest ECD musicians in the land, who have made their own huge contribution to the process.
